

*Italiani in Inghilterra, inglesi in Irpinia:
doppia appartenenza e nuovi repertori linguistici transnazionali*

Margherita di Salvo

Studi italiani di linguistica teorica e applicata XLIV, 2 (2015), pp. 295-317

SUMMARY

This paper investigates the return migration from two English cities, namely Bedford and Peterborough, in a Southern Italian village, Montefalcione (AV). It aims to analyze the linguistic repertoires of returned migrants, their linguistic attitudes. Particular attention was paid to the role of English after the return in Italy and its position in the linguistic repertoire.